INDUSTRY UPDATES:

Adobe: We are discontinuing the sale of our Acrobat perpetual licenses, Acrobat Pro 2020 and Acrobat Standard 2020, in the TLP and CLP Buying Programs. We will continue to offer subscription versions of the product in the Adobe VIP, VIP Marketplace, LGA, and ETLA Buying Programs. The last date for placing orders for Acrobat perpetual license products in TLP and CLP will be July 15th, 2024. Please note that Acrobat 2020 will reach End of Support in June 2025.

Quest: Over the past week, Quest has been addressing many of our clients about the following zero-day vulnerabilities:

- Citrix: XenServer and Citrix Hypervisor Security Update
Two issues have been identified that affect XenServer and Citrix Hypervisor. Each issue may allow malicious, unprivileged code in a guest VM to infer the contents of memory belonging to its own or other VMs on the same host.
- Palo Alto Networks: CVE-2024-3400
A command injection vulnerability in the GlobalProtect feature of Palo Alto Networks' PAN-OS software, for specific PAN-OS versions and distinct feature configurations, may enable an unauthenticated attacker to execute arbitrary code with root privileges on the firewall.
- Fortinet: FG-IR-23-493
An insufficiently protected credentials vulnerability (CWE-522) in FortiOS and FortiProxy may allow an attacker to obtain the administrator cookie under rare and specific conditions, by tricking the administrator into visiting a malicious, attacker-controlled website through SSL-VPN.

Airvine: Backhaul forms the invisible backbone of our connected world, crucial for the seamless operation of networks that power our daily digital interactions. Learn more about core network connectivity, how it works, and its significance in modern telecommunications.
